INDIANS LOOK LIKE DUBS IN GAME WITH SOX

Gleason Men Score 10 Runs in One Inning and Final Count is Pinned at 17 to 1.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 4.—It was a shame to waste Claude Williams on the Cleveland Indians yesterday. Kild Gleason or George Phair or somebody could have pitched just as well as not, and saved Williams for one of the two games against Detroit tomorrow, because the Sox knocked the Indians flat in a record game, 17 to 1.

The only danger the Sox experienced was darkness. It doesn't get dark these days until bedtime, especially with things closed up tight, but it was the fourth inning when the Sox staged their record breaking assault, and, as you all know, it takes five innings to make a legal game.

Well, there was danger during the fourth inning that Cleveland wouldn't get three men out before the moon came up. And if the game had been called because of darkness, all the rampage would have been for nothing.

It was an inning that is historic. Cleveland used four pitchers to get the side out. The Sox scored 10 runs. Lee Fohl, boss of the Indians, said after the game it was the first time in his life he'd seen four pitchers work in one inning. Well, in this game he probably would have used five or six had he been able to warm them up fast enough.

Really, the Sox could have won this game about 97 to 0, judging from appearances, but after that fourth, when they got a hit or got out. Even the Cleveland players were hitting the first ball after the first round with the hope of ending the farce as soon as possible. The score:

REVISED LINEUP NO AID TO CUBS

Pirates Earn Enough to Tie the Count and Are Donated Enough to Win, 4 to 2.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 4.—Fred Mitchell's revised lineup did no better than the ordinary one in the first game of the Pittsburgh series yesterday. The Pirates earned enough runs off Phil Douglas to tie the score and Phil's associates kicked off as many as the Cubs scored. As a result the Pirates took the contest, 4 to 2.

The return of Charlie Hollocher filled Mitch with some good ideas as to how to increase the efficiency of his machine. He put Lee Magee in center field and had him hit third, while Lee Mann was dropped to seventh. Magee helped drive in one run, while Mann scored the other and nothing was gained by the switch. As a result of this the Cubs are only two games ahead of an even break on the season's labor.

Wilbur Cooper pitched effectively and the Cubs could not glean a run till the eighth. At that time he was four runs ahead and could afford to take things easy.

The Cubs threatened to commit much execution in the eighth, filling the bases with none out. However, they gained only one run. Flack led off with a single and Hollocher got a base on balls. Magee beat out a slow hit to Terry, but Merkle forced Magee. This allowed Flack to count. Pick and Deal were helpless and the rally blew up.

Mann started the ninth with a single to Cooper. They let him run so he stole second and third. Killefer and Pinch Hitter Lear topped out, but Flack beat a slow bounder to Cutshaw and Mann came in. Cutshaw threw the ball away, but Flack finally was stranded at second. Score:

ERIE

Funeral services for Mrs. J. M. Rebell, who died at the Venia Hotel home Sunday afternoon, were held at the home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. W. George, pastor of the M. E. church, and interment made in the Erie cemetery. The pallbearers were cousins of the deceased's wife, and the singing was by the Methodist church choir. Lee Danstun, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rebell, was born at Erie, Nov. 24, 1888. He came to Erie in 1911, and was employed by Matthews brothers for some time. Nov. 10, 1913 he was united in marriage with Mrs. Adeline Thuesen Sunday. To this union one daughter was born, Virginia. Mr. and Mrs. Danstun went to Erie in 1913, where they had conducted a restaurant. They then moved to Sleepy Eye, Minn., in 1914, remaining there about one year and six months. They returned to Erie in 1916, and in the spring of 1918, went to Rock Island, seeking to make their home there permanently, but when the flu epidemic broke out Mr. Danstun was taken ill early in the season, while on a visit here at the home of his wife's mother, Mrs. Githler, and he never recovered, although able to be about after several months' confinement.
